ACCIDENT ON THE NEW ALBANY RAILROAD,-On Wednesday afternoon last the express train on the New Albeny and Salem railroad going North was thrown from the track at Smedley's, a short distance beyond Salem, in consequence of the spreading of the track. The locomotive was overturned, and considerably damaged, as was also the baggage car. Fortunately no persons were killed, though several were severely wounded. A young man, named Radcliffe, a brother-in-law of Conductor Hay had his collar-bone broken and was othereverely injured. Harvey Dodd, baggage master, had an iron safe thrown against him and was severely injured. Two or three others were badly bruised and scalded. None of the passengers were injured. The wreck was cleared up yesterday and all the trains were running as usual.

Hon. Chas. Thurber, of Worcester, Mass., has invented writing-machine. The Bay State says it is upon the graduating principle; that one may make his letters as large as the pleases, when they come out of the other end of the mahine very fine and small.—Exchange.

We have received from Mr. Thurber several letters written with this machine. They are written in a very handsome, gentlemanly hand. Mr. T. informs us, that, from a paralysis or weakness of the right hand, he has for many years been unable to write more than two or three minutes at a time, but that by the aid of this machine he can write all day without the slightest inconvenience.

The Vincennes (Ind.) Sun says that on Friday, the 10th inst., a movement will be made to levy on the court house, jail, court house square, and other public property of the county, at the suit of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad Company, for the interest due on $200,000 of the county bonds, for which judgment was obtained at the last session of the United States Circuit Court. The court house and jail are to be sold; the court house grounds will be held from sale until the action of the county authorities is known.

Dimly remembered—ah, that haunting smile! When—where? Yes, it is all as poets tell— Our spirits dwelt in Paradise erewhile! And I should know this pictured glory well. Tis not a dream-I've seen that face in Heaven!

Perchance it wore a brighter beauty there; Yet, to these charms as much of light is given As clouded memory to the earth may bear. The starry spells deep in those glorious eyes, The lip, the brow, the—something over all— I've known and loved these far beyond the skies! And now they hold me in resistless thrall.

Lonely, so lonely-I have wandered long And sought for some ideal shape above All earthly things, and sighed that mid the throng Moved none, not one that I could ever love.

But now, in mercy, tell me where is he? From whom thy canvas caught such splendor? Speak Alas, alas! thou smilest mournfully;

I read thy answer on thy changing cheek Gone to his heaven again! In separate spheres We both must dwell so long—so lonely too; Well, I will worship here with sighs and tears Till called to meet him past you boundless blue.

BAYARD TAYLOR .- The New York Tribune of the 8th says that as other journals have mentioned the fact, it may not be improper for it to state that Bayard Taylor is about to be married to Miss Maria Hauson, a daughter of the eminent German astronomer of that name. The wedding will take place at Getha, the residence of the bride's family, in the autumn, after Mr. Taylor's return from the North Cape. The happy couple will spend the next winlarge sale of stocks at auction, by virtue of an act ter at Moscow. This event will not prevent the execution of Mr. Taylor's plan of an exploratian of Central Asia previous to his return to this country.

> THE HARVEST .- The Hopkinsville Mercury says that the wheat crop in Christian county may be briefly characterized as magnificent. Such a wheat crop has not been seen within the recollection of the oldest inhabitants. A number of farmers estimate their crop at forty bushels to the acre of good plump, heavy wheat, without rust, blemish, or any such thing. The news from other counties is very favoreble.

A few weeks since, Mr. Yolter, of Boone co., lost $2,000 near Covington, and was entirely unable to get a clue to it. On Thursday, however, the whereabouts of the money was revealed. A man in the morning stepped into Laird's store, in Covington, to buy a pistol, and, in paying for it, handed a $20 bill, which was sent to the Northern Bank to be changed. There it was at once recognized by a mark that had been put upon it when given to Yolter, and at once measures were taken to arrest the person who had tried to pass it. He turned out to be a toll-gate keeper named Allen, and was taken to jail. Then he was made to confess the finding of the money, and to go with the officer into the woods, near Florence, where $1,860 were found in a tree .-He was then brought to the Covington jail. The bills are those of the State Bank of Indiana, and had been marked in red with a Y near one corner of SHIP SUNK .- The Mobile Register says: We learn that the bark Edward, bound from Boston to Mobile, freighted with 250 tons of iron for the Mobile and Ohic Railroad, struck off the Bahama Banks during last week and sunk—whole cargo lost. The iron was covered by insurance in Mobile, but the loss will occasion full a month's delay in track laying. Only the other day the Sanford was lost with a similar cargo.

DECISION IN THE HABEAS CORPUS CASE OF THE U. S. MARSHAL .- The Cincinnati papers of yesterday contain the following:

Judge Leavitt, of the United States District Court Judge Leavitt, of the United States District Court, yesterday made a long and able decision on the application of the eleven United States Deputy Marshals who had been arrested and were held in custody by the sheriff of Clarke county, Ohio. It is a document which meets fully every question raised in this extraordinary case. The right and authority of the United States officers to resist and disregard all State process, while engaged in the service of the writs of the United States tribunals; their duty to prevent, by any degree of force, any interruption to prevent, by any degree of force, any interruption in the performance of their duties; the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States Courts of all matters risdiction of the United States Courts of all matters arising under the act of Congress providing for the reclamation of fugitives from labor; the violation of the sovereignty of the United States, which would be involved in any attempt to execute "the extraordinary" act of the Ohio Legislature, giving the State Courts authority to issue writs of habeas convene against all parties destroines according to the Ohio Legislature, giving the pus against all parties detaining persons for any cause, were most lucidly and ably exposed.

Judge Leavitt unhesitatingly decided that the Marshals were justified in resisting the service of the writ in the hands of Layton, and that no more force was used than was necessary to overcome the violence of the Sheriff and his assistant. He saw the purpose of the consumer of the same thing to consume or conduction in the consumer of the same than the nothing to censure or condemn in the conduct of th officers.

He said that whatever prejudice might exist in the community against the act of Congress relative to fugitives, it was the duty of all good citizens to obey the law, and it must be enforced. This duty, the obligations imposed by the Constitution, the relations which the States had agreed to bear to one another, were most eloquently dwelt upon and illustrated.

The coclusion of the decision was, that the Deputy Marshals be released from the custody of the sheriff of Clarke county.

BOLD BANK ROBBERY .- The Portland State of Maine gives the following account of the robbery of the Central Bank of New Brnnswick:

the Central Bank of New Brnnswick:

On Sunday, June 28th, the Central Bank of New Brunswick was robbed of a large amount of gold and five pound notes. The amount is not stated, but we presume from $15,000 to $20,000 in gold, and a still larger sum in bank bills.

The robbers got into the basement of the building, dug through the masenry and got access to the lock, an old fashioned one, bolted to the door by screws. They cut off the heads of the screw bolts, and left the lock hanging in its place, and forced the door. They selected their gold and bills, and left the silver on the floor of the banking room, apparently intending to return fer it. No one connected with the bank visited it from Saturday afternoon to Monday morning, so that they had ample time for arrangements.

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

GENTLEMEN: Your report of my testimony in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Wm. Preston is so incorrect, that I ask you, in justice to me, to Col. Preston, and especially to truth, to publish this note.
You report me as stating that "Preston said that the whole American party were a set of loafers."
Preston did not say this, and I did not testify to it.
Preston, addressing the man who interrupted Strassberg, did say that no loafer should Interfere with yoters or something to the effect, but he did not voters, or something to that effect; but he did not say that the American party were loafers, or any-thing of that tenor.

In the talk which followed, in the crowd, I heard it alleged that Preston had said that the whole Amer-ican party were loafers, but I repeat that Preston had made no such statement, and that the term "loafer," was applied by him only to the man who interrupted or assaulted Strasberg. Several persous, Page, I think, among others, asked Preston whether he had denounced the whole American party as loafers, and Preston replied that he had made no such statement, but had only denounced the man who had assaulted Strasberg.

who had assaulted Strasberg.

Again, you report me as saying: "The crowd was formidable, but Strasburg voted; saw nothing, however, belligerent—nothing to require Preston to make the remark." This is an utter misconception of what I said. Strassburg was not interrupted as he went in to vote, but as he came out. As he came out he was accosted by a man who had the appearance of a "rounder" or bully. The man extended towards Strassburg his left hand, and asked him for this ticket or papers. The manner of the man did not strike me as particularly belligerent, but his left hand was in the attitude of clutching—that is, the back was upward. His right hand I did not see. Nor had I heard that Strasburg had been driven away from the polls in the morning.

Had I known that the right hand of this man was clenched, or had I even heard that Scrassberg had not been allowed to vote in the morning, I would have As it was I inderstood the demonstration better. ought Col. Preston entirely justified in saying to the "rounder" "none of that," "you've no right to interfere with voters," or words of that import. It was in these terms, or terms like these, uttered with decision, that Preston first addressed the "rounder." The man seemed, at first, slightly confounded; but as he rallied, or rather, as he was rallying and as suming a threatening attitude, Preston said to him fiercely, "no d—d loafer shall interfere with voters," and then other words followed.

The above are the facts substantially as I testified The above are the facts substantially as I testified to them on the trial. Your reporter has evidently confounded my answers with the questions propunded by the Commonwealth's attorney. He has mistaken the questions for the answers. I testified to many other facts, and your report of my testimony as to them, especially as to its scope and tendency, is not correct; but I consider it important to make no further correction than that above indicated.

Respectfully, BLAND BALLARD.

Messes. Editoriors: I claim now the full admission not only that Dr. Judd like Dr. Maclay stood fair up to the time of his difficulty with the secretary of the Bible Union, but that with Messers. Bell and Edmunds he continued to stand fair up to July 11, 1856, one month and eleven days after his dismission by the Bible Union, and after Messrs. B. and E. were fully acquainted with all the charges which the Bible Union had to make against him.

Again, Messrs. Bell & Edmunds now expressly admit what they had before denounced as a mendacious statement that contracts were made by the Bible Union through its authorized agent with non-immersionist revisers, differing from the contracts made with immersionist revisers in reference to the translation of baptizo and other controverted terms. I now add that after having read carefully all that they have written and quoted on this subject in their arricle of the 4th, and with all my knowledge of the peculiar style of Messrs. Bell and Edmunds, my best impression is that these vicious contracts remain unannulled, to this day. If these contracts were annulled, why not say so plainly? If something more definite on this point is not forthcoming within a reasonable time, I shall write to England and know the certainty of the matter. As to Dr. Judd's complicity in this thing, as also in the report of the investigating committee, I leave him to defend himself, which I have no doubt he is abundantly capable of doing.

Again, Messrs. Bell and Edmunds admit that one of the revision scholars wrote for English the words "masculunty," "femiantly," "objectional," &c. I hope they will now be willing to inform us whether the same reviser did in his translations use such unEnglish words and expressions as, "Prompt indeed the spirit—but the fiesh wikhout strength," Matt. 26:41; "Where two or three are synagogued in my name," Matt. 18:20; "With the worldly forces of the darkness of this age, with the spirituals of the badness in the h I had put this matter effectually to rest. It was a poor manœuvre to divert attention away from the question as to the genuineness of Dr. Judd's documents. That question naturally returns, now that this matter is disposed of. I now ask Messrs. Bell and Edmunds, as they have the originals safe under lock and key, to say plainly whether Dr. Judd has furnished us with true copies of these originals? You have told us of revisionists, "They take their station openly and fairly before the public." That, gentlemen, is just what we wish to see you do with regard to the genuineness of Dr. Judd's documents. But again. Messrs. Bell and Edmunds tell us that Dr. Cone, the first President of the Bible Union, and his comanagers submitted to a forced contribution of $1,000 of hush-money to Dr. Judd, knowing him at the time to be an unprincipled and heartless villain, and still allowed him, after that, to retain his place unimpeached, both as a reviser in the service of the Bible Union and as a minister of the Gospel in the church of which Dr. Cone also the Gospel in the church of which Dr. Cone also himself was a minister. If anybody has ever written anything either against revisionists or against Baptists equal to this it has not been my fortune to meet with it. Take notice, the rascality in this case is not a thing of imagination or sentiment or of rhetorical coloring; it is a tangible rascality and enters into the substantial facts of the case and distributes itself duly, pro rata, to all the parties concerned. I have been accustomed to consider Dr. Cone a true and heroic man, of vigorous and healthy perhaps not perfectly symmetrical, moral develop ments. You, gentlemen, teach me to believe that he was a craven, wanting in every manly quality and meanly false to God, to himself, to the Bible Union, and to the Baptist Church—that he lived Union, and to the Baptist Church—that he lived thus and died thus! Let it be recollected that this picture of Dr. Cone and his associates, in all its prominent features, has been drawn by the President and Corresponding Secretary of the Louisville Revision Association. Whether this picture can be relied on to teach us anything correctly of Dr. Cone or not, it does teach us something of its authors and admirers. They who approve the course here ascribed to Dr. Cone must pardon us for regarding their approbation or disapprobation of anythin matter not worth considering.

Messrs. Bell and Edmunds are exercised not a little about my course in this discussion. True, gentle-men, I have no great confidence in the revision movement, as one likely to result in much good any men, I have no great confidence in the revision movement, as one likely to result in much good any way. Its management and its results in the past give us, as I think, no very cheering augury with regard to the feture. But hatred to revision is not the secret. Nor yet was I smarting under a sense of defeat in the "discussion," for, until you kindly volunteered to give me the information, I was not aware that any party with which I sympathised had been defeated—excepting, indeed, in the comparative number and length of the letters and certain characteristics of style which I had not learned to associate particularly with the idea of victory. Nor am I in league with Dr. Judd. In that matter you have shown the facility with which you can assert what you do not know to be true. I have never had a syllable of correspondence with Dr. Judd directly or indirectly in any way whatever. You reveal the tottering condition of your self-respect when you allow yourselves to note and remember and publish in two of the papers of this city, the fact that Dr. and Rev. so and so are accustomed upon occasions to extend to you, more or less, the ordinary civilities of life. As you evidently feel the need of such things, and as these gentlemen seem to be so very kind, might it not be well for you to get a written statement, over their signs-manual, certifying you as candid and honorable men, and fair and courteous dismetants? Knowing you as they do, they surely kind, might it not be well for you to get a written statement, over their signs-manual, certifying you as candid and honorable men, and fair and courteous disputants? Knowing you as they do, they surely would not put you off with ambiguous compliments and faint praise. To return to my motives, however, as far as you are concerned to know them; I would say, lay guessing aside and judge me by my actions.

There is another matter that must not be forgotten—indeed it seems that some damage has already been sustained from the want of earlier attention to it. I would say then to all those who have dignity, or piety, or holiness, or any other good thing in a position likely to be endangered by a candid and fearless investigation of the points at issue, they are there at the owner' tak. Piety and holiness as mere obstructions to investigation will be treated precisely like any other obstructions.

There is another important matter, though rather

*Messrs. Bell & Edmunds had their long article of the tth published in the Courier as well as the Journal. I am not informed whether they have published in other papers or not.

[Correspondence of Commercial Advertiser.] LONDON, June 26.

The improvement in the money market continues and many persons are indulging in an anticipation that before the end of July the Bank of England will find it necessary to reduce the rate of discount will find it necessary to reduce the rate of discount to 5 per cent.

Notwithstanding the sums which are still sent to the continent for the purchase of silver to provide for the fortnightly supply required by the India and China packets, much of the gold which arrives here from New York and elsewhere now finds its way to the Bank of England, and the stock of bullion in that establishment, has augmented to £11.150.000. that establishment has augmented to £11,150,000. This point is higher than has been reached since September, 1856, when the rate of discount was 5 per cent., and there is every prospect that the accu-

September, 1856, when the rate of discount was 5 per cent., and there is every prospect that the accumulation will go on.

Meanwhile the weather has been wonderfully favorable for the growing crops, sunshine and a high temperature having prevailed throughout the month, broken only by an occasional storm just sufficient to prevent any bad effects from drought. The promise for all kinds of grain is therefore extraordinary. Hay is not abundant, but the report of it is better than was at one time anticipated.

A fresh telegraphic dispatch by the overland mail from India and China is now due and will be anxiously looked for from hour to hour. It is upon the character of this that any new monetary movement in the money market will now turn.

Apart from the question of the Eastern exchanges, the position of the Bank of France is the only subject that calls for cautious attention. The monthly return of that establishment, published about twelve davs ago, showed an increase of more than $10,000,000 in its stock of bullion, but subsequently the tide has again turned and a diminution of $4,000,000 has been experienced. Yet in the face of this the Council at their weekly meeting yesterday reduced the rate of discount from 6 per cent. to 5½ per cent. There is therefore cause for anxiety, since if bullion was flowing away while the former rate was maintained, there is of course great danger that the stream will now be accelerated. It is still hoped, however, that the renewal of the adverse movement may prove only temporary, and that the unprecedented harvest which seems on the point of being may prove only temporary, and that the unprecedented harvest which seems on the point of being realized will put everything right. The fate of the realized with put everything right. The rate of the silk crop is now pretty well ascertained, and the conclusion is that it amounts to about one-third of an average—a result which seems discouraging, but which is not so bad as that of last year.

The Council of the Bank of France, it is known on the best possible authority, were opposed to the immediate reduction in the rate of discount, but they were assolutable covered into the present him.

immediate reduction in the rate of discount, but they were absolutely coerced into the measure by the government. The view of the most prudent and influential members was, that, although there is every ground to hope that a period of comparative ease is approaching, the existing charge should be maintained until the safety of the harvest is beyond doubt or, at all events until the rapid efflue of maintained until the safety of the harvest is beyond doubt, or, at all events, until the rapid efflux of bullion, which has characterized the past few days, could be stopped. The impatience of government, however, was not to be controlled, and M. Fould, on behalf of the Finance Minister, actually addressed a circular to each of the directors, requiring their punctual attendance to decide on the proposition. A greater violation of sound principle could not be witnessed, and, although in the present instance the action will probably not lead to direct mischnef, the precedent it affords is full of danger.

On the subject of the elections to the French legislative chamber it will be enough to mention the effect they have produced here. The general feeling is that the movement awakened, although involving no immediate peril, will prove the commencement of much trouble. That despotism and freedom are both consistent with permanence the history of the world testifies, but there can be no faith in a pretended mixture of the two. There must either be free political discussion or none at all, and hence the fact of the Empreya allowing the Fersey heavel.

free political discussion or none at all, and hence the fact of the Emperor allowing the French people to indulge in a revival of political excitement is looked upon as a great mistake. That a similar conclusion has been arrived at on the Paris Bourse seems to be evidenced by a fresh fall in the funds, which the reduction of the rate of discount has not been able to arrest.

WEST POINT MILITARY ACADEMY.-The report of the board of visitors who attended the last annual examination of the Military Academy at West Point by invitation of the Secretary of War has been published. To the general plan, purpose, and propriety of the institution, "unanimous approbation" is bestowed; but some exceptions are taken to the course and system of instruction. We quote from the re-"The most unremitting intellectual effort seems to be required during the entire term of the cadet at the Academy. No mental relaxation, comparatively, is allowed; not even occasional change in the system or method of instruction, much less the relief that would be afforded by historical or other reading, kindred to the subject of study. Whilst the proficiency displayed by the cadets un der examination is alike creditable to their own apt industry and to the zeal and capacity of their teachers, we are not satisfied that this proficiency is a healthy development of all the intellectual faculties required to be trained."

The report further states, as one of the results of this over-tasking system of education, that "the class graduating thirty-eight members this year entered the Academy four years ago, numbering ninety-six," and adds, "this great disparity occurs in almost every graduating class; and as the staff of instruction is sufficiently large to conduct through the entire course a much greater number of cadets than those who graduate, it becomes important, as it is manifestly proper, to inquire whether the sys tem of instruction and mental discipline might not be changed, so much without impairing its efficiency as to relax the strain upon the youthful mind, and by leading it into a more gradual and normal, and less imperative development, save to the institution and to the service some intellect and spirit which might eventually confer honor on both?"

The board are of the opinion that the number of appointments to the Academy should be increased by conceding to each Senator in Congress the privilege of a nomination.

The board recommend that a certificate of good physical condition shall be requisite from the nearest army or navy surgeon before the applicant shall be permitted to present himself at the Academy for admission as a cadet. They also recommend that the privileges of the cadet, in regard to obtaining books from the library, and in cases of sickness and death in their families, should be increased. The finances of the Acadamy, it is stated, are administered in the most satisfactory manber.

IMPORTANT DECISION TO PHYSICIANS. - Some three years since the Eric County (New York) Medical Society established a tariff, which fixed prices for services rendered to the public institutions of the county of Erie, below which it should be dishonorable for any member to accept office from the county. Their motive in this was to get rid of a competition unworthy of an honorable profession, and which had then resulted in the shocking condition of our public institutions which excited so much indignation at the time. The action of the society on this point was unanimous. Subsequently, Dr. John D. Hill, a member of the society, accepted the position of physician to the poor-house at a price below the minimum fixed. For this he was afterward expelled; whereupon he applied to the Supreme Court for a mandamus restoring him to membership. The case was argued in May last, on the question whether the society had any legal right to establish such a tariff. Judge Marvin gives a written decision at length, that the society has no such power, and consequently issues peremptory mandamus, compelling the soc iety to restore Hill to membership.

The society have 30 days in which to appeal. It is probable, however, that they will not do so, but take such other action as they deem necessary. The society is made up of the entire body of the "regular" profession in Buffalo, with many from the country towns, and has acted with great unanimity in these proceedings.

WRITING MACHINE. - An ingenious piece of mechanism, designed to enable a person to record his thoughts of observations while traveling in the cars, in a crowd, or in any place where ordinary writing apparatus cannot be used, has been invented by Mr. Benjamin Livermore, of Hartland, Vt. The paper on which the writing-or rather printing, for it resembles the telegraphic system of printing-is impressed, is coiled around two cylinders, which revolve as the lines are completed, and the letters are worked by a set of keys. No ink is required, the letters being colored by a prepared blue paper. against which the writing paper is pressed at each movement of the keys. The machine works with great accuracy and much facility, and is very compact, not exceeding four inches in length by about two and a half in width. It can easily be carried in a side pocket, and can be used without taking it from the pocket.

A MERITED REBUKE.—The fourth of July speech of "Rev." Mr. Alger in Boston meets with merited censure for its narrow spirit and bad taste, even among the "Republican" newspapers. The most pointed expression of disapprobation, however, comes from an official source. The Board of Aldermen of the city refused the author the usual vote of thanks for its delivery and refused to print the illmanner d effusion.

BANK DIRECTORS .- The following gentlemen have been appointed Directors of the Branch of the Bank of Kentucky at Lexington, viz: Henry Bell, President; Joseph Wasson, Wyat: K Higgins, Geo. W. Norton, John Carty, John M. Ferguson, and John J. Hunter.

The Russians-semi-barbarians as we have be accustomed to consider them—have invented a kind of "baby cradle" for children whose mothers are at of "baby cradle" for children whose mothers are at work, which embraces all that is good in the French system. The device originated with the Countess Julia Stroganoff, aided by a good man—Anatol Demidoff; and the first specimen was opened in the Russian capital and called a Prijut. It received children from three to ten years old; they were brought to the Prijut in the morning and remained all day; nourished, clothed, and so well amused that they liked to stay there. This has now become an established domestic institution in St. Petersburg.

The dress provided for each child is a gray blouse, clean stockings, shoes, and aprons. The little ones are instructed in the catechism, Bible history, Russian history, reading, writing, and the elements of scholarship and handicraft; they are taught to sing, to work at light employments, are allowed to play, and are given food enough to satisfy them. When evening comes, their home clothes are resumed and they are sent away with their mothers; the little girls with prizes of bits of ribon in their caps, and the boys with tokens in their button holes. The Paris "cribs" charge something like two pence a day to the parents for younger children; the Priujts are not more expensive. Such an institution is everthy an enlightened people.

THE CLOSE OF A MONSTER LITIGATION.—The

The Close of a Monster Litteation.—The New York Court of Appeals have finally decided the North American Trust and Banking Company cases, the most expensive legal controversy, we believe, ever conducted in this country.

These suits have been before our courts more than fifteen years. The pleadings and proofs as they came before the Court of Appeals occupied several large printed volumes. The entire January term of the court was consumed in the argument of them, and the amount involved was upward of two millions of dollars.

The controversy grew out of certain trust deeds made by the North American Trust and Banking Company, previous to its failure, to Richard M. Blatchford and others, trustees, to secure a large indebtedness principally due to Palmers, McKillop, Dent, & Co., of London, and the Bank of the United States and Girard Bank in Philadelphia.

After the failure of the Company, Daniel Lewitt, who had been appointed its receiver, deemed it his

After the failure of the Company, Daniel Levitt, ho had been appointed its receiver, deemed it his duty to institute proceedings in the then Court of Chancery, to set aside the trust deeds and have them declared void and invalid. From that time until the present the controversy has been pushed on by Mr. Leavitt with untiring energy, through all the courts, until a signal defeat has finally overtaken him. The judgment of the Supreme Court, which manipuously propagated the trust deeds valken him. The judgment of the Supreme Court, which unanimously pronounced the trust deeds valid, has been unanimously confirmed by the decree of the Court of Appeals. The decision now made involves, we believe, a greater amount of money than any one cause ever decided in the courts of this State; and we have heard it stated that the costs and counsel fees amount to more than $130,000.

State; and we have hear? It states that the costs and counse! fees amount to more than $130,000.

The counsel who, during the progress of the controversy, have been engaged in the cause, are Chancellor Kent, Peter A. Jay, David B. Ogden, George Wood, Edward Sandford, John Cleveland, George N. Titus, E. H. Blatchford, Charles C. King. Sam'l Beardsley, W. Curtis Noyes, Greene C. Bronson, Nicholas Hill, Benjamin F. Butler, Charles O'Connor, William Kent, and Daniel Lord. The three gentlemen first named and Mr. Noyes were the first counsel constituted by the trustees. Six of the above named gentlemen are deceased.

The order of payments directed by the court is such that there is httle prospect, from present appearances, of enough being left to reimburse Mr. Leavitt's expenses for counsel.

in the market, but previous to that it was one of the favorite Wall street fancies.

A very large amount of it was held by George Law just before the decision of the Supreme Court; whether he holds it still or not we are not advised. The decision just rendered will create a great sensation in the financial circles of England, where a large proportion of the bonds of the Trust Company were owned, and where, we regret to add, there has been for some time a growing distrust of our judicial tribunals.—N. PARTICULARS OF THE WINNEBAGO DISASTER. Particulars of this terrible affair continue to reach us. The books of the ill-fated steamer having been us. The books of the ill-fated steamer having been lost, it is impossible to tell, as yet, the exact loss of life, or the number of passengers on board the boat at the time. In the excitement, those who were saved appear to know nothing of the number, and to be unable to gather their senses sufficient to tell anything about it. A gentleman from Oshkosh tells us that, from the best information he can gather, the number of killed cannot be less than twenty. From a correspondent at Oshkosh we have received the following letter, giving some particulars relative to the disaster:

Mr. Editor: The most disastrous accident, and we can hardly call it an accident, that ever happened on hardly call it an accident, that ever happened on the inland waters of our State occurred on the 3d inst. on Lake Butte des Morts, about 9 miles distant from this city. A great deal of rivalry has existed and a great deal of racing has been carried on between the several boats which run on Lake Winnebago and the waters tributary to it for a long time past, which is greatly to be censured. The steamers Pearl and Berlin City were racing, when a terrific explosion of the boiler of the Berlin City took place, blowing the whole upper part of the steamer into a thousand fragments. Your correspondent was in this city when the Pearl came in, bringing the scalded and wounded passengers of the Berlin City. But two or three of all on board escaped without injury. A young Miss Carhart, who had been attending the female seminary at Appleton, and, accompanied by her mother, sister, and two nephews, was returning home, was sheckingly scalded from head to foot. The shrieks of the poor girl were terrible to hear as she lay on board the Pearl. Her life was desugared of for a time but scalded from head to foot. The shricks of the poor girl were terrible to hear as she lay on board the Pearl. Her life was despaired of for a time, but there seems now to be a chance for her recovery. Her face will probably be disfigured for life.

Her face will probably be disfigured for life.

The mother of the young lady, Mrs. Carhart, was severely burned, but she forgot it in sympathy for her daughter. Her sister was seated in the back part of the boat with her two sons. They received no further injury than being thrown into the water. One little boy had a part of his skull broken in, and his chance of life considered as doubtful. The clerk was injured internally, having been thrown with great force into the water. The Pearl brought in about twenty-five, and nearly all of the number, who could walk, had their heads or limbs bandaged, scalded, bruised, and bleeding in a frightful manner. One of the ewners of the boat remarked while I was One of the swners of the boat remarked while I was there that the number of lives lost would probably never be known, as they had no means of finding ut how many passengers there were on board, but that there were a good number and must have been as many as twenty killed. A good deal of excitement prevailed in Oshkosh as I came along, and general gloom seemed to prevail throughout the city, which affected, very materially, the festivities of the 4th. This disaster will put a temporary check upon the lake boats—but it will soon be forgotten, and racing will be as much in vogue as ever.

THE SUBMARINE EXPLOSION IN COIT SLIP, BUF-FALO.—A large crowd gathered around the Coit Slip at 3 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, to witness the ex-plosion of 125 pounds of powder on the rock at the mouth of the Slip, under the direction of Messrs. Parkinson and Smith, civil engineers. Our point of observation was from the upper deck of the Troy, about one hundred feet from the rock. Previous explosions had given a depth of eight or nine feet. Punctual to the time appointed, a boat put off with the charge on board, the assistants on shore paying out the conducting wires as they went. The rock was marked by a temporary buoy, and the charge was almost immediately dropped to its destination beneath the waters. The boat let go, and then dropped off before the wind down the Slip. They had hardly reached a place of safety, before the electric current was sent through the wires, a faint jar was felt on the deck of the steamer, a great dome of heavy white spray rose in the air for forty or fifty feet, and sank instantly down again, a big wave washed up over the pier, and rocked the row-boats lying by it; and then there was a calm upon the surface. There was no sound of explosion, only the rush of the water as it rose in the air; no smoke, bservation was from the upper deck of the Troy, rush of the water as it rose in the air; no smoke, but a transient sulphurous smell.

It seemed as if there were two explosions, although the powder was all in one receptacle. The dome of water rose in the air, began to fall, and was met from below by another which lifted it up again. All this was very beautiful, though momentary. We learn that it was also successful, and that the rock is now thoroughly removed. again. All this was very mentary. We learn that it was also successful, and that the rock is now thoroughly removed. Among the spectators present we noticed ex-President Fillmore, and many other gentlemen of note.

Buffalo Commercial.

Cooke, the tragedian, was in the habit of giving orders to a widow lady, who was once sitting in the pit with her little girl, when their friend the performer was about to be stabbed by his stage rival. Roused by the supposed imminence of his danger, the girl started up, exclaiming, "Oh! don't kill him, don't kill him; for if you do, he won't give us any more pit orders." Her disinterested grief, like the gratitude of some people, was a lively sense of benefits to come.

The beauty of Indian names when translated is all humbug. Mississippi means no such thing as "Father of Waters," but simply "Big Water, or Big River." An exchange says that Niagara means "Hark to the Thunder." It does not. In the Tuscarrora language Niagara significe nearly the same as "Big water-tumble."

ELECTIONS IN FRANCE.—The manner in which ctions are held in France is probably not known the most of our readers. The following letter to the Commercial Advertiser gives an insight into it:

PARIS, June 25. The election for Deputies to the Legislature passed The election for Deputies to the Legislature passed off without any occurrence worthy of remark. A much larger vote was polled than was anticipated, especially by the opposition. It was generally predicted that the republicans were spending their time and their efforts uselessly, and that the only result would be a compromise of their dignity in presence of a power they detest. The result most triumphantly contradicted these predictions, as the figures will show. It is true that the opposition have elected but five of their 115 candidates, or rather five out of the 237 Deputies of which the Chamber is composed; but they have cast a total of votes which stand as a solemn protestation against the Government which rules, and as a contradiction to the oft-asserted boast that the country is happy and contented under its that the country is happy and contented under its present chief.

As you no deubt learned by telegraph by the steamer Columbia, the republicans in Paris elected by handsome majorities two of their ten candidates, Messrs. Goudchaux and Carnot, Ministers under the Republic of '48. Gen. Cavairne received a larger Messrs. Goudchaux and Carnot, Ministers under the Republic of '48. Gen. Cavaignac received a larger number of votes than his official opponent; but, according to the law of the Empire, an absolute majority of all the votes cast is necessary to a choice; and as the General's majority over his opponent was but small, there were enough of scattering votes to destroy the election. In two other districts the same result was observed.

The result at Paris stands thus: Ten Deputies were to be elected. In the 1st, 2d, 8th, 9th, and 10th districts the Government candidates were elected; the republicans elected their candidates in the 5th and 6th districts; in the 3d, 4th, and 7th districts there was no election and a new election will have to take place.

By the decree of February, 1852, it is ordered that: "If any candidate has not obtained the absolute majority of all the votes offered, and the vote of at least one quarter of the registered voters of his district, a new election must take place the second Sanday which follows the day of the proclamation of the result."

The second election will therefore take place the 5th of July; and as there are three districts in the departments which failed to electin the same way as the three in Paris, there will be six new ballototh of July; and as there are three districts in the departments which failed to electin the same way as the three in Paris, there will be six new ballotings. This second election will require, like the first, an absolute majority. If this second trial fails, then the third election takes place between the two highest candidates, and a plurality vote decides

In order to show you the state of parties in Paris, and that you may understand the true sentiment of the people toward the present Government (and this is the interesting feature of this election for the American reader), I add here some figures:

1852. 1852 1857. Votes received by Gov. candidates...134,497 110,536 Votes received by Op'tion candidates. 87,778 96,389 Thus it is seen that while the republican vote has materially increased since 1852 that of the Government has diminished. It will be seen also that the abstentions are much more numerous this year than

There is still another fact of striking importance. It will be seen by these tables that the Government received less than ons-third of the registered votes. In the city of Paris proper, leaving out the two country districts of St. Denis and Sceaux, which becountry districts of St. Denis and Sceaux, which belong in the department of the Seine, the Government received 83,602 votes and the opposition 82,173. Now if you will recollect that the employees of the Government in Paris, State and municipal, number 40,000 persons, that the whole garrison of Paris, augmented by large additions from the country, ostensibly to maintain order, but in reality to smother the popular veice at the ballot-box, and by 3,000 old soldiers at the Invalides, all of whom voted, where. I would ask, among the citizens proper ted, where, I would ask, among the citizens proper of Paris, are the friends of the present regime? Subtract from the 356,000 registered voters the 143,000 abstentions, a large proportion of whom are Legitimists, the 96,000 Republicans and the 75,000 employees of Government and soldiers, and the number of votes in favor of the Government is reduced to 42,000. Deduct St. Denis and Sceaux and confine the vote within the walls of Paris and this figure is reduced to 25,000 votes.

Twenty-five thousand disinterested votes do not therefore respond to the boasted happiness and con-tentment which the Constitutionnel and other Minis-terial journals claim daily for the Government that rules. They do not respond to the five years of glory, of prosperity, of honor abroad and strength at home, of satisfaction at home and influence abroad, which of satisfaction at home and influence abroad, which they never cease to tell us exist.

The Government journals rejoice mildly over their victory; they overlook the vote at Paris, not one of them having given an analysis of it, and claim their victory in the mass. Thus, there were 237 Deputies to elect; in Paris and the Departments the opposition had brought forward 115 condidates—122 of the Government candidates running without opposition. Of these opposition candidates but seven are elected—that is the fact they exult over—only four of whom are republicans pure.

These four republican candidates elected are:
Messrs. Carnot and Goudchaux, at Paris; Dr. Henon, at Lyons; and M. Cure, at Bordeaux. To this list will be added, without doubt, Gen. Cavaignac. None of these candidates, it is believed, will take the oath required of all Deputies on taking their seats, and a new election will have to be ordered. Then the Government, to prevent a repetition of this indignity, will order a Senatus-Consulte, will prevent all such demonstrations for the future. Candidates, when they declare their intention to the proper officer to stand as candidates, as required by the present law, will at the same time be asked whether they intend to take their seats if elected, and the issue of the authority to stand as a candidate will depend agent their representations.

date will depend upon their responses. Seven of the late Deputies to the Chamber, whose candidacies the Government had refused to renew, ran on the opposition or independent ticket and were defeated. The Count de Montalembert received but 3,198 votes against 11,795 for the Marquis de Conegliano, official candidate, and 5,440 for Gen. Dupuvey, republican. At the election of 1852 the Count was the candidate of the Government and was elected. But in the Chamber he opposed the Government; he was in fact its only opponent and the only inde-pendent man in the House. This independence could not have offended his constituents, and the complete reversion of public opinion is only to be attributed to the pressure of the Government exerted through the prefects on the simple minded people of the country. It was supposed that the Count's great influence, as the political champion of the church in France, would secure his election through this influence; but when election day came the priests hesitated between the Count and the State, and compressible the question by a complete appendion from mised the question by a complete absention from the polls.

To the Editors of the Louisville Bulletin:

SEYMOUR, Ind., July 9, 1857. GENTLEMEN: In your issue of to-day, you intimate that the delay of the mails from Cincinnati to Louisville is occasioned by the negligence of the Postmaster at Seymour or by the route agents on the O. & M. R. R. Such is not the case.

The Louisville mail leaves Cincinnati at 9 o'clock A. M. and arrives at Seymour at 1:14 P. M., where it was to lay over until 1 o'clock at night, that being the first train South on the Jeffersonville Railroad it was to lay over until 10 clock at night, that being the first train South on the Jeffersonville Railroad after the arrival of the Louisville mail at Seymour. The mail in every instance has been promptly for-warded on the first train South, so, you see, the fault is not in the Postoffice at Seymour, nor are the route agents to blame. The whole delay is caused route agents to blame. The whole delay is caused by the running arrangements of the Ohio & Mississippi and Jeffersonville Railroads. If the direct connections were made, it would take your mails through ready for distribution by 4 o'clock P. M. Let the railroad companies make the connections, and those connected with the mail service will put the mails through on time. Yours, &c.,

JOHN M. M'COLLUM,

Local Agent.

We are far from desiring to do injustice to Mr. Mc-Collum, the postmaster at Seymour, or any other official. We merely called the attention of the special agent to the different post-offices and routes to ascertain where the fault was. We were perfectly aware of the running arrangements between the Ohio and Mississippi and Jeffersonville railroads, as stated by Mr. McC. (which, by the way, have since been changed and the trains make again their connections). But what directed our attention to the Seymour post-office was that the Cincinnati paper mail of Monday morning, which should have been received here on Tuesday morning, did not come to hand till Wednesday morning, while the letter mail came through. If it was not detained at Seymour, it must have been detained at Cincinnati, and our purpose in penning the article was to direct the attention of the Department to the matter to correct these repeated failures, occasioned by sheer neglect of its officers. It is an every-day matter for a portion of the Eastern mail to fail. Last evening, for instance, we received the New York papers of Wednesday evening, and this morning some of the papers of Wednesday morning, while those of Thurs-

POLICE PROCEEDINGS .- Saturday, July 11 .- We are not obstetrical, that being a branch of education neglected by our honored preceptors. But there are some proprieties of life, according to our judgment, connected with the practice of this branch of the profession. The genuine Milesian, however, has but little regard for them, and, after the rough Irish way, he allows nature to take its own course. For instance, yesterday there was a birth in the family of John Noland, an Irish shoemaker, near the corner of Tenth and Market. The room was nakedly furnished, the floor was damp, and there was but a mattress. John was drunk in honor of the occasion. No physicians-no nurses-nothing but a blow upon inhuman father goes to the Workhouse, but ought to dull.

go to the gallows. The negroes for several days have been almost entirely monopolyzing law and justice. This morning Augustus and Pamelia Ann Hopkins, living on the alley, between Preston and Jackson streets and Gray and Broadway streets, were arraigned for receiving stolen goods, which goods consisted of five chickens of which they had no knowledge. Mr. Elliott dismissed the charge.

Wm. Sinkhorn yesterday was found by officer Curry on Brook street choking his wife, Mrs. Gabriella Sinkhorn. The latter is jealous of the attention of her husband to Mrs. Sparks, and visited Mrs. S. armed with a pistol instead of a card-case. As it was a family difficulty, the case was dismissed.

In the case of Col. Wm. Preston, the jury was still out, undecided, at 11/2 o'clock this afternoon. The general presumption is that the jury will be unable to agree.

Last night, Mr. Brown, laboring under severe illness, while in a fit of delirium leaped from the second story of his residence on the railroad, near Fourteenth street, and broke his leg.

The report of the death of Alexander Gilmore, which appeared in some of the morning papers of the city, is erroneous. He is not dead, and hores are entertained of his recovery.

BEECH FORK POST-OFFICE, WASHINGTON COUN-TY .- Mr. Case, the postmaster at Beech Fork, requests us to notify the public that there is now no such post-office as Glenville in Washington county, but that the name of the office is Beech Fork, and all mail matter must be directed accordingly to insure $9 10, $9 80, $10, and $10 80. Freights very scarce and hardly any shipments making.

CINCINNATI, July 10, P. M. Flour market is dull and irregular—sales of 700 bbls at $6 25@$6 50 and some extra at $6 50@$6 75; receipts are moderate. Some 10,000 bush new Kentucky wheat to be delivered within the next two weeks are on the market; shipper offered $1 25 for prime white which has been refused. Very little doing in corn and oats, and not much arriving, Whisky advanced to 26c, with a fair demand and light arrivals; the stock in the hands of speculators is estimated at 25,000 to 40,000 bbls. Bacon is in good demand and prices tending upward, with sales of 250 hhds at 9% @ 10c for shoulders and 12@12%c for sides. Sales of 50 bbls mess pork at $22 50@$23. No change in groceries. Lin seed oil firm at 84c, with sales of 65 bbls.

NEW YORK, July 10, P. M. Cotton market closed firm with sales of 250 bales. Flour firm—sales of 8,000 bbls. Wheat firm—sales of 1,000 bush. Corn firm—sales of 20,000 bush. Provisions closed quiet. ST. LOUIS, July 10, P. M. Flour closed firm at $6 50. Wheat firm at $1 g0 for red. Corn firm at 68@75c. Oats firm at 68@70c. Hemp $120@ $125. Tobacco 5%@18c.

NEW OBLEANS, July 4.

New Obleans, July 4.

Tebacco—The market has been particularly heavy during the past week, and the sales, at least so far as made public, barely amount to 350 hhds, in several lots, and nearly all on private terms, though prices are understood to be irregular and decidedly in favor of buyers, especially for low round lots, and we modify oor quotations somewhat. Stock on sale 15.000 hhds.

Pork—The market has continued to present a very inactive appearance, with sales of only one or two lots of mess, from first hands, at about $23.25, though the ruling retail rate has been $23.50. The stock is in few hands and is not pressed upon the market, otherwise lower rates would probably have to be accepted. The stock at the inspection warehouses on the 1st was only about 8,900 bbls of all descriptions, including 988 mess and 7,856 uninspected, showing a decrease of some 6,000 bbls during the month.

Money Market—During the past week the market has been in a more stringent condition, and higher rates of interest have been paid than for several years. It seems to be the general impression that the market will gradually grow easier from this time.

NEW YORK CATTLE MARKET, July 8. NEW YOEK CATTLE MARKET, July 8.

As the supply was small at all the yards to-day, prices have advanced from %6.3% & to nall qualities. The average quality of the offerings compares very favorably with that of the past few weeks, and there were several fine lots on sale, which brought from 12.613c & b—but the latter price only for the very best quality. The supply hailed chiefly from Illinois and Ohio, with 125 head from Indiana. The demand was pretty brisk on account of the short supply, which was only 2.122 head of fresh cattle for the whole week at Allerton's and 2.344 head at all the yards.

Cows and calves are dull and about $5 \(\pi\) h. ad cheaper than usual.
